

Engaging and Strengthening Partnerships Webinar: Partnership Mapping Exercise

Partnerships can help benefit your health center in many ways. They can identify where you can turn for needed resources and expertise, help to increase your center’s situational awareness during a disaster, and establish a foundation of trust not only between organizations, but with the whole community.

This exercise is intended to help you identify who your current partners are during steady state and during an emergency, demonstrate which of your health center’s needs they support, and explain what activities they take on to meet those needs.

This exercise can also help you determine where gaps still exist at your health center, and identify potential new partnerships that could support the needs of not only your facility, but your entire community.

Part 1: Partnership Mapping during Steady State

Spend a few minutes creating a “map” of your internal and external partners on a regular day.
